GONE WITH THE WIND

We didn't see it coming. We had nowhere to run.
Barrelling down the road, grey clouds blocking the sun.
Dad ushered us out the car, "Into the ditch!" he said.
But in my heart, I knew, that we were settling on our deathbed.
I dove into the ditch; others weren't so lucky.
I heard them crying out, their pleas were loud and bloody

It was a swirling, spinning dragon.
Wreaking havoc upon the streets.
No one could stop the disaster.
Not even the largest fleets.
And when the storm had passed.
We were left cold and alone.
With only the clothes on our backs.
We trekked to the nearest home.
And just like that it was Gone.
Attacked us
As if we sinned
And left
Us with Nothing
Like we're
Gone
With
The Wind

Diary entry- Living in a slum
I dragged myself out of my bed, which is just a mattress on the floor. Me and my sister share it, and my other sister and baby brother share another. My mum, dad and four siblings sleep in the same room. I didn't have a good sleep last night as my baby brother woke up crying in the night. Everyone else was still asleep, so I tiptoed to the kitchen and ate some bread. I couldn't find anything else to eat, so I took the bread even though it was a little stale. I went out to the water pipe where I found eight other people queuing, as the water is only available for two hours. I filled up a bottle for my family although it wasn't very clean.
After I had got the water, I returned home and woke my two sisters up. We walked to school. We are all in the same class. My desk is old and has lots of dents in it, and the wall are crumbling, but that doesn't stop me from having fun at school! I love to see my friends and I learn new things every day.
At 2 o'clock, me and my sisters stopped to look in the shops on our way home. There are so many! I love to look in the shop where they sell leather because the bags they sell are so pretty. On our way back, we also passed a place making clay pots. When we arrived home, we washed our clothes in the river and chatted to our friends. We then left them to dry by the railway track.
Our house has a kitchen and a bedroom; it is very small. The bedroom floor is covered in sheets and 3 mattresses. Our kitchen has a stone floor and has lots of pots hanging on the wall and there's a small stove.
At 5 o'clock, dad got back from work. He helps to recycle plastic; a job many people do here in Dharavi. Mum made some chicken bhajiyas and we enjoyed sharing it with our neighbours. We are lucky enough to have a TV, so we watched some until 9pm when we went to bed.
